NUTRITION LESSON 11

CALORIE DENSITY.

How to eat more food for fewer calories.

CALORIES PER GRAM.

Calorie density is how many calories are packed into each gram of a food.

CALORIE DENSE

LOTS OF CALORIES, NOT MUCH FOOD

Chocolate, nuts, oils, butter

CALORIE SPARSE

LOTS OF FOOD, NOT MANY CALORIES

Fruit, veg, salad, lean meat

WHY IT MATTERS

Two meals can look the same size but have very different calories. Knowing which foods are which helps you stay full on your target.

SAME WEIGHT, 10 TIMES THE CALORIES.

Here's 100 grams of each:

APPLE

0.5 calories per gram

52

calories in 100g

CHOCOLATE PEANUT BUTTER CUPS

5 calories per gram

515

calories in 100g

THE SAME CALORIES LOOK LIKE THIS

10 apples (1kg)

100g of chocolate

MORE FOOD, FULLER FOR LONGER.

Ten apples will keep you full far longer than a few chocolates, for the same calories. When you're losing fat, that makes a huge difference:

BIGGER MEALS

Fill your plate with low calorie foods and you get more to eat.

LESS HUNGRY

More food in your stomach keeps you full for longer.

EASIER TO STICK TO

When you're not hungry, hitting your calorie target feels much easier.

BUILDING MUSCLE?

It works the other way round. Calorie dense foods help you hit a high calorie target without feeling stuffed and bloated.

TWO "HEALTHY" BREAKFASTS.

Almost the same food, but look at the difference:

BREAKFAST 1

- Normal yogurt
- Honey
- Blueberries
- Bottled green smoothie

619 calories

BREAKFAST 2

- 0% yogurt
- ~~No honey~~
- Blueberries
- Greens powder in water

216 calories

SAVED WITH THREE SMALL SWAPS 403

SAME AMOUNT OF FOOD

Breakfast 2 fills you up just as much, but uses far less of your calories for the day. That leaves more for the rest of your meals.

PICK FOODS FOR YOUR GOAL.

LOSING FAT

Focus on calorie sparse foods, so you can eat more and stay full.

- Fruit
- Veg
- Salad
- Potatoes
- Lean meat

BUILDING MUSCLE

Calorie dense foods help you hit a bigger target without feeling stuffed.

- Nuts
- Avocado
- Olive oil
- Rice

ASK YOURSELF

Before you eat something, ask: how much food am I getting for these calories?

REMEMBER THIS.

1 SOME FOODS PACK IN CALORIES

Others give you lots of food for few.

2 LOSING FAT? GO SPARSE

More food, fuller for longer.

3 SMALL SWAPS ADD UP

Like 0% yogurt and no honey.
