

NUTRITION LESSON 8

FOOD ENVIRONMENTS.

Set up your home and work so the good choice is the easy one.

WILLPOWER RUNS OUT.

Every choice about food uses up a bit of willpower. You make lots of them every day, so by the evening there's not much left.

That's why the biscuits win at 9pm, not 9am.

THE ANSWER

“It's easier to change your environment than to change your mind.” Set up your kitchen and desk so you don't have to fight temptation all day.

SEE IT, EAT IT.

You're far more likely to eat the food you see first. So what's left out on show really matters.

❌ Cereal, biscuits and sweets on the side

✅ A fruit bowl out on the side

LESS WILLPOWER NEEDED

When the good food is the first thing you see, picking it doesn't take any effort.

SORT YOUR KITCHEN.

HIDE THE TREATS

Put chocolate and crisps out of sight and hard to reach. A high cupboard, not the worktop.

KEEP THE FRIDGE FULL

An empty fridge is how takeaways happen. They're hard to track and higher in calories than you'd think.

GOOD SNACKS ON SHOW

Fruit, chopped veg and cooked chicken at the front of the fridge, ready to grab.

DON'T HANG OUT IN THERE

The more time you spend in the kitchen, the more trips to the fridge you make.

BIN YOUR TRIGGER FOODS

The foods that start a “sod it” binge. If it's not in the house, you can't eat it.

SORT YOUR DESK.

Most people keep snacks in a desk drawer or within arm's reach. That's a lot of calories that are very easy to eat.

1

CLEAR IT OUT

Get the sweets and chocolate off and out of your desk.

2

EAT AWAY FROM YOUR DESK

Make your desk a food-free zone. Eating while you work means you don't notice what or how much you eat.

3

BRING YOUR LUNCH

Hungry and rushed is when bad choices happen. A lunch you made last night is also easier to track.

WHY THIS MATTERS

You spend around 40 hours a week at work. That's a lot of chances to graze without noticing. The Meal Planning lesson shows you how to plan your lunches.

REMEMBER THIS.

1 WILLPOWER ISN'T ENOUGH

Change your surroundings instead.

2 HIDE TREATS, SHOW GOOD FOOD

You eat what you see first.

3 KEEP YOUR DESK FOOD-FREE

And bring your lunch.
