NUTRITION LESSON 3

NEAT.

The calories you burn outside the gym, and how to burn more.

EVERYDAY MOVEMENT.

NEAT is the calories you burn moving about in your day. Anything that isn't a planned workout.

N	E	A	T
NON	EXERCISE	ACTIVITY	THERMOGENESIS

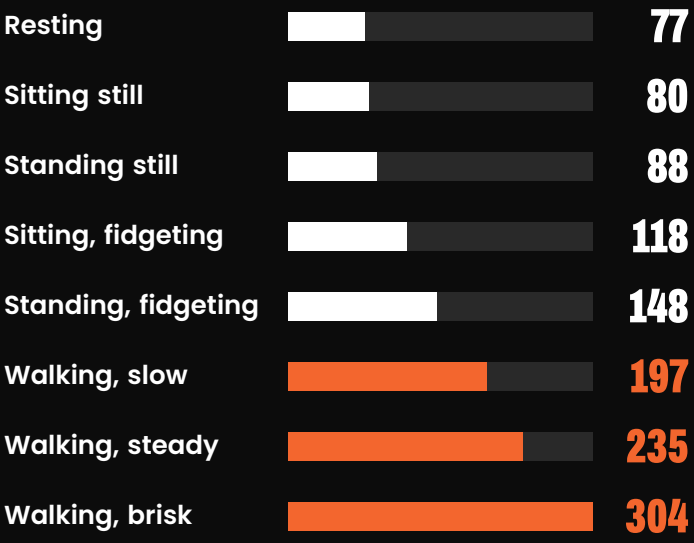

Thermogenesis just means your body making heat. In other words, burning calories.

IT ALL COUNTS

Walking to the shop, standing at work, housework, playing with the kids, taking the stairs, even fidgeting. None of it feels like exercise, but it all burns calories.

CALORIES BURNED PER HOUR.

Small changes make a big difference. Here's roughly what an hour of each burns:

WHY THIS MATTERS

Standing and fidgeting burns nearly double what sitting still does. A brisk walk burns about four times as much as resting. Everyone's numbers are a bit different, but the pattern is the same.

MORE MOVEMENT, MORE BURNED.

Move more in your day and your body burns more calories. That means two things:

YOU NEED MORE FOOD

Your body is using more energy, so it takes more food just to keep your weight the same.

EASIER FAT LOSS

You can make a calorie deficit without cutting your food right down. You burn more instead.

QUICK REMINDER

A calorie deficit means eating less than your body burns. It's the only way to lose fat. We covered it in the Calories lesson.

SAME RESULT, THREE WAYS.

Same person as the Calories lesson. Her body burns 2,500 a day. She wants a 500 a day deficit.

EAT LESS

1 Works, but it's the least food

MOVE MORE

2 Works, but that's a lot of walking

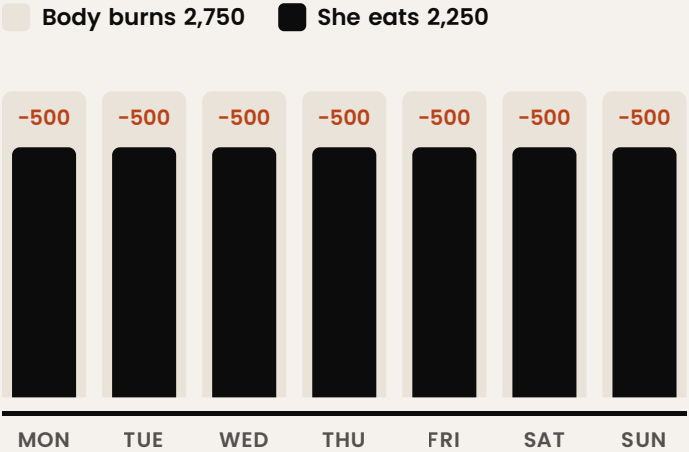

BOTH

3 The happy medium for most people

EAT A BIT LESS, MOVE A BIT MORE.

She moves 250 more a day, so her body burns 2,750. She eats 2,250. That's still 500 less than she burns.

LESS EACH WEEK
3,500 calories

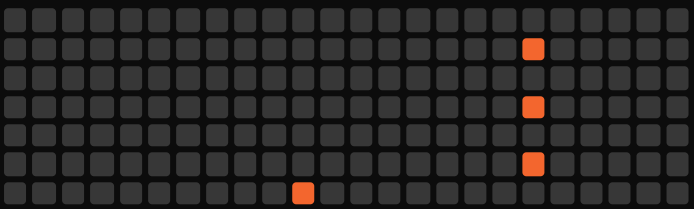

ROUGHLY EQUALS
1 lb of fat

THE WIN

Same fat loss as eating 2,000, but she gets 250 more calories of food every day. Eating more is always easier to stick to than eating less.

THE OTHER 164 HOURS.

There are 168 hours in a week. Most of us train for about 4 of them. Every square below is one hour.

In the gym: 4 hours The rest: 164 hours

WHY THIS MATTERS

People worry about how much they burn in a session. But the hours outside the gym add up to far more. Moving more in those hours is where NEAT comes in.

GET YOUR STEPS UP.

Walking is the easiest way to raise your NEAT. Start here:

1

TRACK FOR A WEEK

Don't change anything yet. Use the steps app on your phone, a Fitbit, or a cheap wrist tracker (around £20 on Amazon).

2

FIND YOUR AVERAGE

Add up the week and divide by 7. That's where you're starting from.

3

ADD A LITTLE AT A TIME

Raise it bit by bit. Small steps up are easier to keep than a big jump.

EASY WAYS TO ADD STEPS

- Walk while you're on the phone
- A walk after tea, with or without a dog
- Park further away, take the stairs
- Get up from your desk every hour

REMEMBER THIS.

1 NEAT IS EVERYDAY MOVEMENT

The calories you burn outside a workout.

2 MOVE MORE, EAT MORE

Burn more and you can eat more.

3 TRACK YOUR STEPS, THEN RAISE THEM

Find your starting point first.
